TOPIC: DO EXERCISE

A. Help improve work performance

"I know that working out every day is good for my health and helps me get in shape. But what I've found is that exercising boosts my productivity a lot and really helps me focus better. So, I always try to squeeze in some exercise before heading to work-it definitely makes me more productive."

B. Find exercise tiring

"We've all heard about the many benefits of exercising, and I know about them too. My friends often invite me to work out, but after I exercise, I end up feeling extremely exhausted and spend the rest of the day just lying around to recover."

C. Has fun when exercising with friends

"I often go to the gym to work out, but what really motivates me to workout is catching up with my friends there, not just for improving my health. Plus, it's a great way to meet and make new friends. For me, exercising is just another chance to socialize."

D. Hate exercising

"My friends often advise me to exercise to maintain a good physique and health. However, I am very busy with a tight work schedule. Even if I weren't busy, I still wouldn't like to exercise. I feel uncomfortable as soon as I put on workout clothes. I don't think exercise is something that suits me."

TOPIC: UNIVERSITY AND TECHNOLOGY.

M: What course are you taking these days?

W: I'm currently pursuing an online university degree. It's really suitable and convenient because I can study while working. Technology has truly made education much more accessible.

M: That's amazing. I still remember the old days when you had to stand in long lines to borrow a book from the library, which took a lot of time. And by the time it was your turn, the book was often already gone. Now, when we want to read a book, we just type the title online and have it immediately.

W: Exactly, study materials were really scarce back then, unlike now.

M: That's why I'm thinking, why not make all school classes online? It would save a lot of costs.

W: I think attending school in person is still very necessary because meeting friends and socializing helps us gain more soft skills.

M: Don't forget that young people do have a reputation for being less social. They often prefer talking on social media rather than meeting in person.

W: Additionally, I think the variety of courses available nowadays is also a good way to improve education.

M: I don't think so. Offering too many diverse courses can make traditional and core subjects seem less important and neglected.

W: We should also consider competition among universities. It's essential for universities to continuously improve their programs and attract more funding, especially with the current trend of universities seeking financial autonomy.

M: I don't think we should turn education into a race like competing businesses. If universities need funding, they can report it to the government and educational organizations.

- Technology helps make education more accessible: B
- Social interaction is important: W
- The diverse curriculum is not an advantage: M
- University competition should be encouraged: W

16. TOPIC: SCRIPT PRODUCTION

- The characters' background are not adequately explored
- The new industry demands are negatively influencing script production

TOPIC: TRAVEL TO WORK

A: walk with a friend

"I often choose to walk to work to save on gas money and to keep in shape. I usually walk to the company with a close friend. Sometimes we feel really tired but still push ourselves to walk all the way. There are times when we see a bus stop and have to resist the urge to hop on the bus."

B: travel by car

"I had to take driving lessons to be able to drive to work. My mother works along the same route, so we often drive to work together. Occasionally, she takes over the driving, and I'm happy because driving together gives us more time to chat"

C: walk alone

"I used to use my car a lot to get to work. But since I moved closer to the company, I always go there on foot. I have a friend who cycles for 20 minutes every day to work—can you imagine? She must be super fit!"

D: travel by bus

"I'm concerned about the Earth and the environment, so I always look for ways to use public transportation, like buses or trains, to reduce harmful emissions. I can't walk to work because it's too far from my home, but I always walk to the local market when I need to buy groceries."

TOPIC: THE INTERNET.

W: These days, there's so much information on the internet that I feel overwhelmed.

M: That's true. A lot of people feel the same way, especially with the mix of real and fake information. Sometimes we end up reading fake news.

W: That's why using the internet requires both knowledge and skills. Without good information-searching skills, we can waste a lot of time. There's so much content uploaded to the internet every day, and we have to be cautious because it might not be accurate. As a result, people are gradually changing how they perceive the information they encounter online. It's not like in the past when we read newspapers and believed everything was true.

M: Additionally, the internet has made people much more impatient than before. They want everything to yield quick results. People are losing the ability to wait for outcomes like they used to.

W: Exactly, because the internet allows us to find millions of results in less than a second. We're getting used to that, which is leading to a decline in patience and tolerance.

- There is too much information on the internet: B
- Using internet requires skills: W
- The internet is changing the way we think: W
- Internet has made people less patient: B

16. TOPIC: SPORT

- A. The building
- B. The river boat
- C. The museum

- A. Living room
- B. Bedroom
- C. Kitchen

14. TOPIC: PROTECTING THE ENVIRONMENT

A. Using less water

"I think a lot of people overemphasize protecting the environment by cutting down on personal vehicles, avoiding plastic bags, planting a lot of trees, and so on. But I personally believe we should focus on protecting the environment through small daily actions we often overlook. For example, turning off the water while brushing our teeth or washing our hands. If everyone saves a little water like that, it would add up to a huge amount saved globally."

B. Shopping online

"I usually shop online to reduce the need to drive to the supermarket, which produces harmful emissions for the environment. Additionally, I can avoid using plastic bags for groceries when shopping in person. By simply sitting at home and clicking a few buttons, I can buy everything I want without emitting harmful gases from a car."

C. Not driving to work

"I used to drive to work for a long period, but then I realized that the excessive use of personal cars contributes significantly to environmental pollution. Therefore, I chose to ride a bicycle to work, which benefits both the environment and my health."

D. Using less electricity

"I'm not that into environmental protection and usually just do what's convenient for me. But my electric bill last month shocked me because it was so expensive, and I realized that I needed to save money. So from now on, I'll have to manage my electricity use more efficiently."

15. TOPIC: MUSIC AND SINGERS.

W: Did you hear about the concert last night? A lot of young people attended.

M: Yes, I know about that concert; it was very popular. I don't understand why so many young people are so eager to attend. They're blindly idolizing young singers, and these idols don't really teach them anything good.

W: I see it differently. The young singers today are very talented, and they do a lot of charitable work for society. I think young people look up to them and follow their example.

M: Yes, they volunteer a lot, but they do it for the wrong reasons. They only want to boost their own fame.

W: Oh, I think you don't like young singers because you don't enjoy their music, right?

M: Exactly, I only like listening to classical music from previous generations. I think music preferences are very personal and each generation has its own unique taste in music. But music is always a universal language that conveys emotions everyone can understand.

W: I didn't study music like you, so I don't really have any ideas about this.

M: You don't need to study music to understand it. Just think about why you cry during a sad movie scene when the music plays or why you feel energized when you hear a happy song. Isn't that right?

W: Yes, I think that's why films always try to include at least one piece of music.

- singers play a good role for young people: W
- taste in music is a highly personal thing: B
- Music is a universal language: M
- Music can manipulate people's feelings: B

16. TOPIC CCTV (SECURITY CAMERAS)

- C. Trousers

14. TOPIC: STUDYING HABITS

A. In various places

"I can study in different places, like coffee shops, libraries, or parks. For me, the location isn't that important because I have good concentration skills."

B. In a quiet place

"I can't study in very noisy places because I can't focus on my homework. If I study in a café, I end up not getting anything done. So, I usually study in places such as my room in my house or in my office."

C. With music

"I prefer listening to music while studying. I usually play motivational songs to help keep me alert, especially when studying in the morning. Music is like a cup of coffee, keeping me awake and motivated in my studies."

D. Late at night

"I often can't focus on studying during the day; I feel tired and sleepy when I have to wake up early and study. So, I usually study at night when everyone in the house is asleep. The quiet atmosphere at night allows me to focus the best and be the most productive."

15. TOPIC: THE SUBJECT OF BEAUTY.

W: Hi, what are you reading?

M: I'm reading an article about the concept of beauty.

W: Oh really, that sounds interesting. Beauty is something that can't be defined because everyone has a different perspective on it, right?

M: Actually, people have quite similar perspectives on beauty. We always prefer beautiful things and are drawn to them.

W: Beauty in the past and now is very different. The older generation might see traditional things as beautiful, while the younger generation considers unique and unconventional things as beautiful. So, not everyone has the same view on beauty.

M: Beauty can be found in many places we wouldn't expect, or even within something considered ugly, there's always some beauty present. So, nothing in the world is entirely ugly.

W: Exactly. That's why the definition of beauty is constantly changing. In a few decades, people might find things beautiful that we once considered ugly.

M: That's one perspective. Let's wait and see how it changes.

- People share the very similar ideas about beauty: M
- Views of beauty change over time: W
- Beauty can be found in unlikely places: B
- Traditional ideas of beauty are going to change: W

14. TOPIC: A PLACE FOR STUDYING

A. On public transport

"The distance from my house to school is 20 km, and it usually takes me an hour to get there. So, when I'm on the train, I use the time to do homework and review the lessons for the day. Some people say that studying like this can be distracting, but I find it very effective for me."

B. At home

"I don't like studying in very crowded places because I can't focus well. I usually sit on the sofa in the living room to study. My parents often travel for work, so my house is very quiet."

C. In the coffee shop

"I don't like studying in very quiet places such as at home or in the library because I get sleepy easily and might even fall asleep while studying. There's a coffee shop near my house, and I often go there to study because the presence of other people makes me feel more motivated. I find that I achieve higher productivity and efficiency in my studies when I'm there."

D: In the park

"I notice that most people prefer doing their homework in the classroom, but for me, those chairs are way too hard and leave me sore all day. I prefer sitting under the trees in the park to study it's cool, and the air is fresh. There's a famous coffee shop across from where I sit, and they serve really good coffee."

15. TOPIC: ACTORS.

M: What do you think about casting actors before casting them?

W: I think it's absolutely necessary and the most important thing because it determines whether the actor is suitable for the role or not.

M: I understand that auditions are important. But if we only rely on a 15 to 20 minute audition, that short period of time cannot really show us the actor's full potential.

W: That's a good point. So I think it's better to let actors perform freestyle, not relying on the script, so that they can improvise, thereby clearly showing their acting skills.

M: But actors often respond best to a good script. And they also need a script provided by the director and directed to act according to the script. Actors can't always act freely.

W: What do you think about stage actors moving to film acting?

M: I think they are two completely different fields. When I was studying acting in college, stage acting and film acting were two completely separate subjects. They require different skills and qualities from the actor. So, it's not easy to move from stage acting to film acting and vice versa.

W: That's right. These are two very different forms of acting and they require different skills from the actor. However, as actors, I think we all need encouragement and support from the audience.

M: I completely agree. Actors need praise and feedback to feel recognized for their efforts and contributions.

- Auditions are the most important of casting: W
- Actors respond best to a strong script: M
- Theatre acting and movie acting require different skills: B
- Actors need to be praised: B

16. TOPIC: MAKING PLANS

TOPIC: OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

A. Mountain biking

"My father often encourages me to ride horses because it's a sport he enjoys. But I'm very afraid of this animal and never want to learn how to ride, even though there's a riding school near my house. Instead, I prefer mountain biking with my friends to conquer high peaks."

B. Going for a run

"My husband and I often wake up early and go to a nearby forest for exercise. We usually go jogging in the early morning to stay healthy, and we really enjoy the fresh air and natural scenery in the forest."

C. Climbing

"I used to love mountain biking, enjoying the thrill of riding down steep slopes. It was really an amazing and adventurous feeling. However, after an injury from a fall, I became haunted by the fear of crashing and now I'm scared of this sport. But I still love the mountains, so I've decided to just go hiking every weekend instead."

D. Horse riding

"My hometown is in the countryside, and we have a very large and beautiful farm. I've been learning to ride horses since I was a child, and it's still my hobby to this day. Whenever I want to relax or enjoy the scenery, I ride my horse along the farm and across the meadows."

TOPIC: ARTS.

M: What magazine are you reading?

W: I'm reading about art.

M: That sounds interesting. I think art is only for the wealthy. Poor people don't have the opportunity or time to enjoy art.

W: Actually, art isn't limited to any one group. If we have an interest, we can access art because it's all around us.

M: I wish that when I was a child and in school, I had more exposure to the arts. I'm really glad that now, when my child goes to school, they can have more exposure to the arts.

W: Yes, that's great news. I hope that the authorities and the government will invest more in the arts and make them accessible to everyone, especially by adding more art classes in schools so that students can be exposed to art early on.

M: I agree. Children should be introduced to the arts early so they can develop their own sense of beauty sooner.

W: I think with the development of technology, where we just scroll a bit and see art videos and images flooding social media, art is becoming more accessible than ever.

M: Really? Let's wait and see how it unfolds...

- Art is only suitable for the privileged few: M
- The government should invest more in arts: W
- Children should be exposed to art early: B
- In the future, art will become more accessible: W

TOPIC: ART

A. Social activity

"I personally don't like and don't have a talent for fine arts, especially painting. But I see it as a great way to engage in social charity activities. I'm passionate about teaching children how to draw because I love kids. I'm also part of a volunteer organization that specializes in teaching art to poor children, which makes me very happy."

B. With children

"I think drawing with my children is a great way to understand them better. No matter how busy my work is, I always make time to sit and draw with my kids. This helps us bond more and gives me the chance to talk with them more."

C. As part of their job

D. Alone

"I'm currently taking a drawing course and I really want to be serious about it. When practicing drawing, I prefer not to draw with friends, even though they often invite me to join them. I want to focus entirely on my work."

TOPIC: URBAN FARMING.

W: The government is discussing adding more farming space to big cities. What do you think about this?

M: I think it's a bad idea. Cities are already too crowded, and people don't even have enough land for housing. How can we take land for farming and raising livestock?

W: We could use spaces like balconies or parks for farming. These farming areas would make the city more beautiful and a better place to live. Plus, it would benefit the local economy since the city could become more self-sufficient in food production without relying on imports from other regions.

M: I agree that farming areas would make the landscape greener and more attractive. But adding farming space won't significantly boost the local economy. Farmers have been transporting food into cities for a long time, and we've never had issues with food supply or shortages.

W: You make a good point. With limited farming space, it wouldn't be enough to meet the food demands of city residents. We would still rely on food supplies from suburban areas.

M: Exactly. A few small farming spaces won't fulfill the food demand, but they would take up a lot of valuable land that could be used for housing.

- Living space is more important than farming space: M
- Urban farming sites can be visually appealing: B
- Urban farming can benefit local economics: W
- Urban farming cannot meet food needs: B

14. TOPIC: ONLINE SHOPPING

A. The products are delivered

"I used to be the person who didn't like shopping online, but ever since I experienced home delivery, I no longer shop in stores. When I shop online, the delivery person brings the package right to my door, even up to my floor, and knocks on my apartment door, so I don't even need to step outside. I really enjoy this convenience."

B. It is cheaper

"Shopping online has helped me save quite a bit of money. After a few months of online shopping, I was able to save enough to buy a new bicycle. But don't get me wrong, I haven't been eating any less or cutting back on the groceries I buy. It's just that online shopping allows me to compare prices and choose the store with the best deal."

C. It saves time

"I'm a pretty busy person, and I often don't have enough time because of my hectic work schedule. That's why I always shop online to save time. This way, I don't need to go to the store in person, and someone will deliver the items directly to me. Additionally, online shopping is very convenient because, with just a few clicks, I can buy everything I want without having to go from one store to another."

D. There are more choices

"I don't shop online because it's cheaper or because of the fast shipping. I shop online because, when browsing online stores, I have a wide range of choices. For the same item, there are many different types and brands for me to choose from and compare, which allows me to pick the one I like the most."

15. TOPIC: POLITICS

M: Have you heard about the upcoming presidential election? A lot of young people have already voted, which shows that they're becoming more interested in politics.

W: Yes, it's very different from our time. When I was 18, I never paid attention to politics.

M: The technology era now gives us so many ways to engage with politics. Politicians often post their political activities on social media much more than they did in the past.

W: Actually, politicians still carry out traditional political activities too. They still hand out flyers and participate in volunteer work.

M: The development of information technology also overwhelms us with information. There's so much news online that we don't know what to read. This makes keeping up with political news much more challenging than before.

W: I think that as technology advances, it becomes easier for us to stay updated on the news. Technology allows us to use advanced filters to easily sort out the news we need to know.

M: There are also more women involved in politics now than before. It seems society has become more open to women.

W: Exactly. Women have the same education and learning abilities as men. They even lead in many areas of life. In the future, more and more women will be participating in political activities.

- young people are becoming more interested in politics: B
- Social media has changed political activism: M
- People are better informed political issues: W
- More women are likely to participate in politics: B

14.

A. In the fitness centre

"My friends often invite me to go jogging on the street, but I find it too dangerous. There's a lot of traffic, which can be dangerous for people jogging on the street. So, I bought a one-year gym membership and go there to exercise every day."

B. In the street

"I usually wake up early in the morning to exercise, and I choose to jog on the street because of its convenience. I just need to step out of the house, and I can start exercising. However, I have to go jogging early to avoid cyclists. My friends go to the gym to exercise a lot, but I find something artificial about the whole things."

C. At the seaside

"I see many people wake up early to go jogging and exercise to stay healthy. As for me, I usually walk along the beach simply to relax because there's a beautiful beach near my house. Every morning, I spend time walking on the white sand; it really helps a lot with my mental well-being."

D. On the running track

"Near my house, there's a stadium where many people go to exercise. I often run on the track there, and it makes me feel like I'm running more professionally. My personality is quite competitive, so I also time myself and race with my friends there."

TOPIC: CHANGES IN THE WORK PLACE

W: I'm thinking about switching to another job.

M: Why? Your current job is very stable.

W: I think I should try my hand at different fields. The jobs I take should only last around 1-2 years. I don't like staying too long in one job or with one company; that would be really boring. Nowadays, many companies offer temporary jobs, which allows me to try out different fields.

M: Oh, but if you stay longer at one company, they might offer you more opportunities for career advancement. I always want to stay long-term with a company that suits me.

W: Nowadays, young people who have just graduated from university are very talented and have many qualifications. I'm afraid that if I stick with one job and don't change to accumulate knowledge in various fields, it will be hard to compete with these young, talented people.

M: We also need to consider job satisfaction. If we do well, we need to be encouraged and motivated. That helps employees feel that their efforts and contributions to the company are worthwhile.

W: You're absolutely right, I couldn't agree more. In this age of technological advancement, many jobs have been replaced by machines. More and more people are losing their jobs due to the development of technology and engineering. I think this is a concerning issue.

M: I don't think so. Technology is helping us do our work more quickly, easily, and conveniently than ever. If we know how to leverage technology in our jobs, productivity will increase significantly, which in turn helps develop the economy and society.

- Continuity is important when planning a career: M
- Job security cannot be guaranteed: W
- Job satisfaction is important for motivators: B
- Technological improvement is good for the economy: M

TOPIC: THE USE OF THE INTERNET

A. Watch films

"I am a big fan of newly released movies, but the cost of going to the cinema is too high. I'm just a student, so I can't afford to go to the cinema regularly to indulge in my hobby. Therefore, I think the internet is great because it allows me to watch movies for free at home. I save both the time of going to the cinema and a considerable amount of money."

B. Complete assignments

"The internet is a great resource for research, finding materials, and useful information for studying. My friends and I often go to each other's houses to do homework together. Instead of spending hours trying to figure out how to do our homework, we quickly go online and find the answers."

C. Communicate with friends

"In today's digital age, the internet helps us access social media to stay constantly connected with friends. Especially since I have relatives mainly living abroad or in distant cities, the internet has been a great help for my family to stay in touch. We often video call each other to share daily stories."

D. Find transport information

"I see that people often use the internet to watch movies, read newspapers, quickly update the news, and so on. But I usually use the internet to find directions and public transport to my friends' and relatives' houses. I'm a forgetful person, and I often forget the way, even if I've been there a hundred times. So the internet helps me a lot in not getting lost and easily find nearby public transport."

C. persuading his family

14.TOPIC: ENVIRONMENTAL PROBLEM

A. Give away used items

"I often don't have time to think about how to reuse my belongings or clothes, but I don't want to throw them away because that would be wasteful. So, I think a better way is to donate them to charity organizations or give them to others. Many people are in need of these things, and

B. Buy environmentally friendly products

"A good way to protect the environment is by not using plastic bags or by bringing reusable bags when going to the market, which helps reduce the disposal of plastic bags, a material that is difficult to decompose. However, I'm a very busy person and rarely have time to prepare my own bags when going shopping, and I usually drive to buy groceries quickly instead of walking. I guess I can't protect the environment by not driving. But I have a principle of only buying eco-friendly products, so I think I'm still contributing in a small way to protecting the Earth."

C. Reuse containers for storing food

"I see that too many people are wasting food containers, as they often throw them away after use, such as glass jars or plastic bottles. I can reuse them to store food and neatly organize them in my refrigerator. Reusing these containers is a very easy way to protect the environment that anyone can do."

D. Does not use commercial cleaning products

"I find the act of giving away old or secondhand items a bit hypocritical. Why do people give away their old things, only to go out and buy the same item but brand new? Not only does this fail to protect the environment, but it also causes double the harm. Personally, I have a way of protecting the environment by not releasing harmful chemicals into it. I do this by not purchasing chemical cleaning solutions. Instead, I make use of natural products like lemons to create my own floor-cleaning solutions."

15. TOPIC: INFORMATION AND TECHNOLOGY.

M: Hi, what have you been studying lately?

W: Oh, I'm still studying technology and information systems—it's a really hot topic these days.

M: That's a fascinating field. I still can't imagine the future of humanity alongside technology. I think within the next hundred years, humans won't be able to keep up with the pace of information technology development.

W: I believe that the younger generation and future generations will become increasingly smarter, and they'll discover even more amazing things about information technology to benefit society.

M: But if technology advances too quickly and becomes too sophisticated, won't that cause a lot of people to lose their jobs? Many industries could be replaced by machines and robots. In the future, machines might even be smarter than humans.

W: I think machines are just there to support humans in their work; they can't replace us or be smarter than us. If machines and robots are involved in the work process, they will make our jobs less strenuous and improve efficiency. This, in turn, will drive continuous economic and social development alongside technological advancements.

M: What about the issue of personal data breaches? We should have more policies to protect personal information and prevent machines from leaking important personal data.

W: I agree with you. A major issue with information technology is the potential for data breaches. If we can improve this, it would be fantastic.

- The future generation will fail to cope with new information: M
- The information revolution will be good for the economy: W
- No computer is superior to the human brain: W
- More should be done to protect individual privacy: B
